The removal of unwanted facial and body hair has recently become one of the most demanded cosmetic enhancements in recent years. This holds true for the ladies, as well as, for a greater and greater number of gentlemen.

Here Is The Good News About Laser Hair Removal:

- Laser hair removal is non-invasive which does not require needles or messy chemical creams.
- It is a smoother, more gentle way to dispatch unwanted hair, with dependable results.
- Since many hundreds if not thousands of hairs can be lasered in a single session, big expanses like the back and shoulders, legs and arms can be treated at one time.
- Considered safe if performed properly.

Unwanted hair has always been a nuisance in our every day lives. With the exception of electrolysis, which can be a long and painful process, all other options for hair removal are temporary at best. Laser hair removal has changed all that. It is a fairly quick and easy way to reduce the amount of unwanted hair on the body. This form of hair removal utilizes lasers that emit a beam of light that passes through the skin to the hair follicle, where it is then absorbed and transformed into heat so that it can disable the follicle.

Individuals will need to receive multiple treatments in order to completely disable the hair follicles. Most people need anywhere from 3 to 6 treatments, but some might need up to 8. Skin type, coarseness of hair and hair coloring all contribute to the amount of treatments needed. Once the treatments are completed, the hair will most likely cease to grow back but if it does, the thickness, coarseness, and amount of hair in the desired area will be significantly reduced. This is a safe, quick and effective way to solve the problem of unwanted hair.
