

A blood test will establish when a patient is affected by electro magnetic pollution

Date: 04.04.2008 - 12:28

Category: Health & Medicine

Press release from: Buergerwelle Germany \(incorporated society\)

Mast Sanity Director of Scientific Studies Ingrid Dickenson has arranged for blood tests to be carried out at a German medical laboratory. This blood test will establish whether a patient is affected by electro magnetic pollution from either power lines, mobile phone masts, mobiles, DECT and other wireless technology and/or environmental pollutants. Blood will be collected through a laboratory in London. In the light of the recent admission by the Health Protection Agency that electro sensitivity is a physical impairment, this blood test will provide the final proof. It is vital that people who believe that they are affected have this blood test.

Read further under: omega.twoday.net/stories/969188/

Speaker of the management: Siegfried Zwerenz

Responsible for buergerwelle.de: webmaster@buergerwelle.de

Address:

Bürgerwelle e. V.

Dachverband der Bürger und Initiativen zum Schutz vor Elektrosmog

Lindenweg 10

D- 95643 Tirschenreuth

Management: Siegfried Zwerenz, Barbara Eidling, Elfi Mayer, Siggie Ebenhoch

You can find this press release here